“ I use to stay at her house with Cody all the time she made me feel so loved and like I was home when I would run away from my father and she never pried or asked why I didn't want to go home I always loved being there and knew if I wanted to feel love and family I had a place to go , she taught me to respect myself no matter what when I was there and growing up I got so busy that I went on with my life and I was out and about one day and ran into Cody and we rode over cause I wanted to see her sooo bad and I walk In and she looks and me and says Lord my girl is home I didn't know what happen to you or if I'd ever see you again but your hear and I knew right then she had really loved me like one of hers, there was always a light on for someone if they needed a place or a bed to sleep if you needed someone to just be there for you ...
