The Hero's Passing

The definition of a hero is a person who is admired or idealized for courage, for outstanding achievements, or noble qualities. Fred was a hero to anyone who met him. He was the man that you could count on to show up and was always there when you needed him. Fred spoke his mind and kept his word. He loved his family deeply and always made sure that they were taken care of. When we look back at the things he accomplished in his life, we only hope that we can be half the person he was.

Fred is survived by his children, Jon (Teresa) DeHaan 46 of Ovet, Dei Dei (Michael) Register 44 of Laurel, Steven (Britney) Yielding 51 of West Stayton, OR, and Shelli (Anthony) Kern 55 of Laurel. He is survived by one sister, Josephine Theis, Phoenix, AZ. Fred is also survived by his grandchildren, Patience Rizzo, Nichol DeHaan, Shelley Cartwright, Steven Yielding, Savannah DeHaan, Madison DeHaan, Sarah Lewis, Cherokee Pearson, Destiny Norwood, Crystal Lewis, Amanda Lewis, Brittany Lewis, Jason Naue, and Joey Sieg. He is also survived by a multitude of great-grandchildren.

Fred was preceded in death by his mother and father, Fred and Dorothy Yielding II; by his siblings, Della and Judy Yielding; and his children, Frank Naue and Shaunda Lewis.

The family will provide a memorial service in honor of Mr. Yielding.
